Headings:

What Lies Ahead?

Future goals and achievements I have in mind will be explained and talked about under this heading. Small or big, I will list each dream or goal I have with a good explanation behind it. Also, some suggestions for what I think can make a better society for humans and other opinions I have in mind for the future.

The Man of The Hour

In this heading I will discuss a little bit about my personality and give broad descriptions of the area I live in, such as Canada, Ontario. I will talk about my past and what interests I have. I will also take some time to bring up some points about how my education is and where I started from. A little bit of background, but not too much.

Accomplishments

Accomplishments is pretty straight forward. I will discuss things such as volunteer hours and what I have done academically, or when it comes to sports and other things outside of school. Maybe some things that I personally feel proud of and discuss that a little bit, but in general it will be most or all of the accomplishments I have under my belt.

Assignments

In this I will have links or descripto+ions of past assignments I have worked on. I will display every assignment I have completed, even if they weren't as good as I wanted them to be. The assignments that I am more proud of or I did the best in will be at the top, while the ones that kind of didn't meet the expectations or just weren't the best will be lower. The assignments will be from the 2020 Computer Science course.

Content:

*note: Content will consist of images, text and colours. As for now, I will include images and colours. Types of fonts will be included as well with a small description of where and when to be used.

Colours:
just a few colours I like and would look good for the aesthetic of my website

#f03024 (shade of red)

#b5acac (shade of grey)

#000000 (black)

#ffffff (white)

The website will be simple, so I won't be needing too many colours.
